Welcome to the ai4k12 wiki! This interim site is being used to organize the AI for K-12 initiative jointly sponsored by AAAI and CSTA. This page will help us get started on the dialog that will eventually result in (1) national guidelines for AI education for K-12, and (2) an online, curated resource directory to facilitate AI instruction.

Upcoming Events

- Panel at EAAI-19 in Honolulu: "The AI4K12 Initiative and How To Contribute To It". Dave Touretzky, Christina Gardner-McCune, and Cynthia Breazeal. Tuesday, January 29, 11:35 AM - 12:25 PM.
- "Blue sky talk" at AAAI-19 (January 27-February 1, 2019, in Honolulu, HI). The talk is Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 30. Here is the paper: Envisioning AI for K-12: What should every child know about AI?
- Tools for Teaching Artificial Intelligence in K-12 workshop, Sunday, January 27, 2019, at the Daniel K. Inouye Elementary School, Wahiawa Hawaii. Sponsored by ReadyAI and AAAI as an outreach event for AAAI-19. Registration link. Informational flyer.

Resource Directory: table of contents.

Please use this form to submit suggestions to our curated directory of AI for K-12 resources.

The AI for K-12 guidelines will be modeled after the 2017 CSTA K-12 Computer Science Standards. You can:

- Read about the CSTA K-12 Computer Science Standards. Click on the "Standards" pulldown menu to view a searchable version of the standards.
- Download a PDF version of the standards.
- View the K-12 Computer Science Framework, which informed the development of the standards

Administration

- To join the AI for K-12 mailing list, send mail to ai4k12@aaai.org.
- The AI for K-12 steering committee members are:

> - David Touretzky, Carnegie Mellon University (chair)
> - Christina Gardner-McCune, University of Florida (co-chair)
> - Fred Martin, U. Mass. Lowell and CSTA
> - Deborah Seehorn, CSTA

- List of Working and Advisory Group Members
- AI for K-12 Working Group Membership Commitment: what we expect from working group members.

Announcements

- 7/9/2018: 120 people attended the "AI for K-12" breakfast at CSTA 2018.
- 5/15/2018: AAAI press release announcing the AI for K-12 initiative.
